

1. Joshua Zepnick shared Gordon Hintz's photo.

19 hours ago

Can we not sell these stickers in 2013?

Mobil Station, N96 W17500 County Line Road, Germantown, WI 53022

- 1.

Joe Handrick

10 hours ago

I don't find this sign funny at all. Here's food for thought for those who focus their anger on the illegal immigrants rather than on the failed system and those who refuse to enforce the law: About 2000 years ago there lived a man who, if he came here, would be considered a foreigner, had olive skin, and didn't speak english. His name was Jesus.

{"cl_impid":"1b7a5	€,€,€,@,?	AQDYOkCY	{"actor":"1098186	1	1
AQALRloE-iJU4o

Like · Unfollow Post · Share

- Gordon Hintz, George Meyer, Ramie Zelenkova and 7 others like this.
- View 8 more comments

Keith Gaddie Still not seeing it . . .

8 hours ago · Like

Susan Dousa Pfeil How many of us had great or great-great grandparents "come over on the boat"? I'm betting every single one of the people on this post did...plus millions more. Unless you are Native American, or First Nations (Canada), I suspect your ancestors also f...See More

7 hours ago via mobile · Like · 1

Joshua Zepnick Yeah, well with all due respect, don't tell us on FB but explain to the rest of your Republican "leaders" as they fan the flame of anti immigrant feelings to win elections and the paranoia of America is being taken over by "others". And, btw, Jesus did not preach "stand your ground" violence, resentment towards the poor (can't be having unemployment or food stamp benefits when the rich need their tax cuts!), homosexuals, those on the margins of society. Latest example of GOP double talk: Walker bucking Milw on need for Police Overtime funds, the day after he visits Oak Creek Sikh Temple which was besieged by gun violence a year ago!! What a hypocrite....46 minutes ago · Like · 1

Steven Krieser Sorry Joe, but I'm not with you on this one. The sticker is probably over the top, and while some people are undoubtedly motivated by racial animus, I think you err in insinuating that opposition to illegal immigration generally is driven primarily by...See More

9 minutes ago · Like

- Sorry Joe, but I'm not with you on this one. The sticker is probably over the top, and while some people are undoubtedly motivated by racial animus, I think you err in insinuating that opposition to illegal immigration generally is driven primarily by racism.

As one of your other commenters here pointed out, it's pretty easy for a person to sit in Madison, Wisconsin, and tut-tut people in Arizona and some of the other states that have been completely ruined by illegal immigration and cast aspersions on their frustration with the complete inability of our federal government to defend the sovereignty of our borders. The whole social safety net and educational systems of entire southern states have been crushed under the weight of these criminals who commit another crime with every breath they take here, having snuck across the border. They routinely steal the identities of millions of legitimate, actual Americans, causing untold grief and billions in individual and business losses annually. Long-time landowners along the Mexican border -- American taxpaying citizens trying to live out life on their own land, have seen their ranches completely overrun with violent criminals who routinely raid their homes and trash their land as the stream of wretched criminals continues to flow unabated to the north, day after day, night after night. And the whole service and agricultural employment sector has been skewed against actual Americans as unscrupulous, treasonous employers have replaced citizens with "undocumented" help for which they pay no tax, pay no unemployment insurance, pay no workers compensation, etc.

Then, on top of it all, we get to be treated to the incredible chutzpah of hundreds of thousands of these criminals marching in the streets in broad daylight, demanding all the benefits of citizenship from a country whose laws they are breaking even as they are standing there. The illegals themselves have bred the animus that many American citizens feel toward them

You may see Jesus when you look at them. I see Satan. And if they don't like it here, hey, the door they came through to get here swings both ways.

10 minutes ago · Like

- Mr. Krieser, Thank you so much for proving my point about the Republican agenda! You are not by chance using a State owned computer right now are you? For starters, you totally lack evidence. The reason people risk their lives to cross border is not to further a life of crime but to seek a safer, better life. Immigration reform has been stymied by YOUR Party's politicians and idiotic Tea Party losers. Why should it be so difficult for ordinary, hard working Mexicans to become an American? I represent one of the largest number of Hispanics in the State Legislature and find your entire rant not only offensive, but irresponsible for someone who should have better things to do with their time at WisDOT! The violence at border is being fueled by out of control gangs from Mexico, all thanks to that other successful program of Republicans called the War on Drugs. But what in reality constitutes the average Undocumented immigrant from Mexico, here in Wisconsin, are people seeking to reunite with family members, people who had temporary work permits and cannot afford or fear for their lives to return to Mexico. By the way, how in the hell does someone without documentation cross back over the border legally or safely hmmm??! On the issue of wages, taxes...you are so wrong it's disgusting. Overwhelming Majority of Undocumented immigrants have ITINs, which means they pay income taxes you moron. While owning homes and paying rent, they pay property taxes. And, of course, everyone pays sales taxes. Here in Wisconsin, we have dairy farms that could not survive without immigrant labor, other agriculture which depends on seasonal labor, and many manual labor jobs that others refuse, like cleaning toilets, changing hotel bed sheets, landscaping, food service, washing dishes, etc. Then, of course, there are the children who are born here to parents without documentation. They are under Federal law Americans. So when they go to public school or need BadgerCare, they are not breaking laws or stealing tax dollars. I could go on, but you show minimal signs of compassion so why bother. Oh...one last point: do you know how many undocumented Wisconsin immigrants, are not only paying the taxes I list above, but also: Auto Registration Fee and Gas Tax, which I believe helps pay your salary, pension, generous health care benefits. I am just shocked you serve in Wisconsin government...

a few seconds ago · Like